UNIT-4-LECTURE-2

Face-to Face

Employer's Expectations

Employer's Expectations

- Your prospective employer might be looking for the following qualities in you:
- i)Disposition
- ii)Career Objective
- iii)Subject Knowledge
- iv)General Knowledge
- v)Communication Skills
- vi)Mental Agility
- vii)Consistency
- viii)Self Confidence

Employer's Expectations

- i)Disposition: Appearance, clothes, facial expressions, gestures , manners, the way you present yourself , the impression you leave on the employer , all these are the components that leaves a lasting impression.
- ii) Career Objective: The interview panel will gauge you what you want to pursue in your life.
- You may also be asked where you want to see yourself after 10 years .
- The panel will try to evaluate your current occupation ,stated objectives, consistency , and reasons for change.
- iii) Subject Knowledge: Every employer expects that the prospective employees are well versed with the subjects they had pursued in the past or are currently pursuing .
- so brush up the fundamentals of your subject/ s or any specialization you have pursued.
- iv)General Knowledge: A good general awareness is the primary requisite of a candidate aspiring for a job today.
- The employer tries to assess your curiosity about what's happening all around you, your analytical ability, your mental level, and your potential for coherent perception of multiple happenings.

Employer's Expectations

- v)Communication Skills : Communicating effectively is vital for both personal and organizational growth. The employer will try to assess how effectively you communicate your ideas both verbally and non- verbally.
- vi) Mental Agility: The ability to quickly grasp the question and reply appropriately is a sign of mental alertness. This quality implies quick thinking, presence of mind , and quick response.
- vii) Consistency: A good candidate has a positive , definite , and well developed approach to life . He will stick to his opinion and make judicious decisions.
- vii)Self Confidence: Self confidence means trust in yourself . This generates self- esteem and self respect.
- By possessing will power , socializing, , identifying your shortcomings, fighting fear and nervousness, having a positive approach, and acting as leader you can boost your self confidence.

Success and Failure Factors

- Success Factors
- Positive attitude
- Proficiency in the field of study
- Communication skills (oral and written)
- Interpersonal Skills
- Confidence
- Critical thinking and problem-solving skills
- Flexibility
- Self motivation

- Failure Factors
- Arrogance
- Apathy
- Uninhibited Nervousness
- Equivocation
- Lack of Concentration
- Lack of social skills
- Lack of firmness
- Inadequate quantitative / qualitative skills
- Unsuitable personality

Questions?

- What are the expectations of an employer from a candidate aspiring for a job?
- Write a short note on: -Career Objective
- - General Knowledge
- -Communication Skills